Tar Heel Tennis Ideals-"We believe"

*We believe in young people, their mentors, teams, teammates, our schools and our state.

*We believe in teamwork is essential and educational, especially for the young.

*We believe the game is the best teacher and high schools can provide an inexpensive avenue to this experience for everyone.

*We believe the game is inclusive. Every player matters as this will be the only true way to grow the game.

While "grassroots" are the base, high school teams have historically been a frequent link in our pursuit of excellence. From family support to early instruction to junior tournaments, the next step is high school tennis.

High school tennis teams are the gateway to college tennis, teams, and scholarships. While playing at the professional level is difficult and rare, without at least some college experience, makes it nearly impossible.

Our Mission Statement

To provide support and tennis education for high school coaches, players and their families.

When I put the word out to the select group of tennis professionals, almost all of them did not hesitate to join the effort.

This group has played, coached, trained and educated others at the very highest level of the game. They truly understand what it means to be part of a high school team and what it takes to make them successful.

The Shot Doctors have hundreds of years of experience between them and are willing to share that wealth of knowledge with whomever will take it.
